Claims 1-23, 35 and 36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The term "substantially" is subjective and therefore unclear.

It is unclear if those claims reciting secondary rubbers require additional rubbers besides the elastomer of the independent claims since the isobutylene containing secondary rubbers are in fact embraced by said elastomers.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-50 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102 (a or e) as being anticipated by Tsou et al. (either US 6,875,813 or WO 200157340).

Patentees ('813 available under paragraph "e" of 35 USC 102 which corresponds to the above PCT patent) disclose a composition having isobutylene elastomers and semicrystalline polymers (abstract) which include combinations of brominated butyl rubber and Exxon Exact plastomer respectively carbon black and curing agent (see the examples in Table 1). Natural rubber may be added at column 6, lines 9-21 and polybutene oil may be added at column 6, lines 56-66.

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-50 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-24 of U.S. Patent No. 6,875,813.

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the generic terms recited by the patent claims are disclosed to include applicants specific species by the patent specification which thus supports the patent claims and is therefore properly relied on.

Claims 1-7 and 11-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Simonutti et al (US 6030304).

Art Unit: 1711

Patentees disclose a composition having a rubber and plastomer (abstract) wherein said rubber includes butyl rubber (column 2, lines 16-25). Note that the examples use fillers and curing agents.

Claims 8-10 and 24-50 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Simonutti, cited above in view of Coran (US 4,130,534).

The primary reference does not disclose use of extender oil.. Coran however discloses an elastoplastic composition and that extender oil is "desireable" to improve processability and other properties (column 8, lines 38-53 and 15-20).

Use of extender oil in the composition and process of the primary reference would have been obvious to a practitioner having an ordinary skill in the art at time of the invention as taught by Coran motivated to improve properties, absent any showing of surprising or unexpected results.
